He Thinks the Americans are Disgruntled About the Halifax Award.

London, April 20.—It is officially stated that Lord Salisbury, in a dispatch sent to Washington March 24th, said that the British government, understanding the action of the United States in denouncing the fishery articles of the treaty of Washington to be, in a great degree, a result of disappointment at being called upon to pay £1,100,000 under the Halifax fisheries award, offers to revert to the old condition of affairs without pecuniary indemnity, which offer it trusts will commend itself to the American government as being based upon the spirit of good will and generosity which should animate the two great and kindred nations, whose common origin, language and institutions contitute as many bonds of amity and concord.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The secretary of state declines to either confirm or deny the statement cabled from London to the effect that Lord Salisbury has sent a dispatch to this government on the subject of the fisheries, offering to revert to the old condition of affairs without pecuniary indemnity. Secretary Bayard also declined to express any opinion with regard to the subject matter of the dispatch as cabled, which is not exactly news in diplomatic circles, the same proposition having emanated from a Canadian source some time ago. Well informed persons incline to the onlinion that the offer referred to in the cabl gram, has been thus indirectly, and unofficially made as a feeler to ascertain, in alvance of an

the offer referred to in the cabl gram, habeen thus indirectly and unofficially made as a feeler to ascertain, in alvance of an actual tender, how such a proposition would be received by the American people. As the representatives of the United States on the commission that negotiated the treaty of Washington and the Halifax commission which fixed the award made to England for the use of Canadian inshore fisheries, expressly denied that the privilege accorded to United States vessels of fishing in Canadian waters was more valuable than the concession made to Canadian of Ising in Canadian waters was more valua-able than the concession made to Canadian fishermen of a like privilege in waters of the United States and the free entry of their fish, it is safe to assume that the department of state never entertained the idea of renewing the treaty of Washington with the understanding treaty of Washington with the understanding that the last indemnity was again to be paid to Great Britain for the right to enjoy the into Great Britain for the right to enjoy the inshore fisheries of Canada. Negotiations with Great Britain on this subject are progressing and the secretary hopes that they will result in a harmonious and satisfactory understanding between that country and the United States. So many applications for information and copies of the treaty of Washington have roured in upon the department since the adjournment of congress that the 10,000 copies of that treaty printed for the use of the department, have been exhausted and a fresh supply has been ordered.

WHAT CONSTITUTES THEFT? A Texas Decision Which Throws New Light on the Subject.

A Texas Decision Which Throws New Light on the Subject.

Austin, Tex., April 20.—The court of sppeals has just rendered a decision which has thrown the gambling fraternity into a flutter. The case was William Porter vs. the state, from Collier county, charge, theft. Porter, while engaged in a game of cards, borrowed money from a bystander to use in the game, on promise to pay it back after the game was over. He failed to do so, and the man loaning him the money had him indicted for theft. He was found guilty in the lower court and appealed his case, which has been affirmed. Judge White, who rendered the opinion, said among other things that if the taking, though originally lawful, was obtained by a false pretense, or with the intent of depriving the owner of the value thereof and appropriate the property to the use, etc., of the person taking, the offense is complete.

In this the material question is, do the facts in the recordiconstitute theft? It is in proof that the money alleged to have been stolen was loaned by the prosecutor to the appellant upon the promise to return it when he had finished the game of cards he was then playing. The court instructed the jury that if they believed from the evidence that appellant and those indicted with him entered into a conspiracy to obtain the money, to deprive the owner of its value and appropriate to their possession, and that the owner of the money did not part with the title to it, but gave it to the indicted parties on their promise to return it after the game and they did not intend to comply with their promise, that the jury would find the defendant, Wm. Porter, guilty of theft. We are of the opinion that the court stated the case correctly in conformity with the statute. This is a novel case, but in our opinion a case of theft is made out and the judgment is affirmed.

THE ANARCHISTS DISBAND Chicago Groups Hold a Meeting and Break

Up the Organization. CHICAGO, April 20.—The Daily News this

CHICAGO, April 20.—The Daily News this morning says:

"An event which one year ago would have been considered of startling importance happened in Chicagoia few days ago. A formidable organization which filled the history of Chicago for the year 1886 with terror and excitement drew its last breath and was buried. The anarchistic groups of the International Working People's association disbanded. There was no particular excitement about this occurrence. None of once influential and powerful leaders attended the funeral. The burial of the International Working people's association took place at 63 Emma street, in the presence of about fifty men, who still remained in the various groups. They were members of the northwest, southwest and southside groups of the International Working People's association of the general committee, central body of the Internationalists and of the Lehr and Wehr Verein.

Jacob Gruneberg, who was chosen chairman, in a lengthy speech announced the object of the meeting: "I would suggest that we give a conservative friend an opportunity to speak." The friend to whom Mr. Gruneberg alluded was one of the leaders of the central labor union. "His speech made quite an impression on the scared crowd.

After he had finished one member moved that the organization be disbanded. Several speakers made faint attempts to oppose the motion. The conservative again made an earnest appeal. "You have no organ," he concluded. "Your name is mentioned with horror and contempt even by the workingmen. If the lives of the convicted men row in the county jail are dear to you, disbaud, and let all past experiences be forgotten forever." The motion was finally submitted to a vote, and carried without a dissenting voice.

Lincoln, Neb., April 20.—There is a well defined rumor to the effect that the Union Pacific stockholders are quietly preparing to surrender the old Union Pacific main line for government debt and abandon their Omaha and Council Bluffs termini, making several branches of the Union Pacific which are owned by them, independent of the government line, a new system of lines, with Lincoln as their eastern terminus. The main features involved in this plan consists of, first, a through line from Lincoln to Denver, with a connection at Lincoln to Denver the connection at Lincoln to Denver the connection at Lincoln the connection to the connection this plan consists of, first, a through line from Lincoln to Denver, with a connection at Lincoln with the old Iowa Pool lines, and, second, the linking together of all the Union Pacific branches with this Lincoln and Denver line, making with the Oregon short line, Denver and Rio Grande a new system to be called the Lincoln, Denver and Pacific. This to be conducted under cover of the old St. Joseph and Grand Island road, which, it is definitely known, is owned by the Union Pacific regime, who have never parted with the control of the Union Pacific branch lines. It is claimed that by the time cengress is ready to act upon Union Pacific matters, these lines will be completed and the Union Pacific, shorn of its branches, will be ready to be turned over to the government as a white elephant.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES AT NEW YORK'S CAPITAL.

The Life, Character and Public Services of the Late President Reviewed by Hons Benjamin H. Brew-ster and Chauncey M. Depew-A Distin-guished Audience Present-Notes.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20.-Exercises in honor of the memory of the late President Arthur was held in the assembly chamber this evening, a distinguished audience being present. Most of the members of the senate and assembly-many with their wives-were present. Among the relatives of the ex-president present were Chester A. Arthur, Jr., Miss Nellie Arthur, James H. Masten, of Cohoes; Arthur H. Masten, Mr. and Mrs. John E. McElroy, Misses May and Jessie and Mr. William H. McElroy. The only decorations were American flags draped behind the speaker's desk and a portrait of General Arthur.

Senator Smith called the meeting to order and introduced Governor Hill as chairman. The governor was received with hearty applause and briefly returned thanks for the honor conferred on him. The speakers were ex-United States District Attorney Benjamin H. Brewster, of Philadelphia, and Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, who spoke eloquently of the life and character and public services of the dead president. Mr. Depew concluded his speech as follows:

cey M. Depew, of New York, who spoke eloquently of the life and character and public services of the dead president. Mr. Depew concluded his speech as follows:

When the end came for General Garfield, Arthur entered the white house as he had taken the oath of office—alone. A weaker man walld have succumbed, a narrower one have seized upon the patronage and endeavored to build up his power by strengthening his faction. But the lineage and training of Arthur stood in this solemn and critical hour, for patriotism and manilness. Friends, coworkers within the old lines, and associates under the old conditions looking for opportunities, for recognition or for revenge, retired glohastened and enlightened from the presence of the president of the United States.

The man had not changed. He was the same genial, companionable and loving gentleman, but in the performance of public duity he rose to the full measure and dignity of his great office. It was the process which has been witnessed before among our statesmen, where under the pressure of sudden and grave responsibilities the evolution of character and capacity which would, under ordinary cenditions, have taken a lifetime or perhaps never matured, culminate in a moment. The most remarkable example in our history was Abraham Lincoln, and in a lesser degree Edwin M. Stanton and Salmon P. Chase. The cold and hesitating constituency which expected the president to use for the personal and selish ends and ambitions of himself and friends the power so suddenly and unexpectedly acquired, saw the chief magistrate of a mighty nation so performing his duties, so administering his trust, so impartially acting for the public interests and the public welliare, that he entered upon the second year of his term in full possession of the confidence of his countrymen.

The grateful task of review and portrayal of the history of his administration has been most worthily assigned in these cremonies to the learned, elequent and eministration has been most worthily assigned in these crem stewhen as the greats of the nation, typified the undying gratitude of the republic for the services rendered by the great French patriot and his countrymen, and by the famous German soldier. But the president, with characteristic grace and tact determined that the ceremonies should also officially record that all feelings of hostility against the mether country were dead. He directed that the celebration should be closed by a salute fired in honor of the British flag, as he felicitously said, "in recognition of the friendly relations so long and so happily subsisting between Great Britain and the United States, in the trust and confidence of peace and good will between the two countries for all the centuries to come," and then he added the sentence which might be Amedica's message of congratulation at the queen's jubilee this summer, "and especially as a mark of the profound respect entertained by the American people for the illustrious sovereign and gracious lady who sits upon the British throne."

General Grant was dying of a lingering and most painful disease. Manifold and extraordinary misfortunes had befallen him and his last days were clouded with great mental distress and doubt. The old soldier was most anxious to know that his countrymen freed him and would hold his memory sacred from all blame in connection with the men and troubles with which he had become so strangely, innocently and most; nextricably in volved. Whether his life should suddenly go out in the darkness, or be spared for an indefinite period was largely dependent upon some act which would convey to him the confidence and admiration of the people. Again were illustrated both General Arthur's strong friendship and his always quick and correct appreciation of the expression of popular sentiment. By timely suggestions to congress, speedily acted upon, he happily closed the administration by affixing as its last official act his signature to the nomination, which was confirmed with unultious cheers, creating Ulysses S. Grant general of the character and career into their tender and watchful keeping.

There has rarely been in the history of popular governments so great a contrast as in the public appreciation of General Arthur at the time of his inauguration and when he retired from office. The president of whom little was expected and much feared returned to private life enjoying in a larger degree than most of his predecessors the profound respect and warm regard of the people without distinction of party. He was a warm-hearted, social, pleasure-loving man, but capable of the greatest industry, endurance and courage. He dearly loved to gratify his friends, but if he draught the public interest so required no one could more firmly resist their desires or their importunities. By his dignity and urbanity, and his rich possession of the graces which attract and adorn in social intercourse, he gave a new charm to the hospitalities of the white house. Though the son of a country clergyman and unfamiliar with courts in him the veteran courtiers of the old world found all the culture, the proper observance of ceremonial properties and hings of ancient lineage and hereditary positions, but tempered by a most attractive republications, but tempered by a most attractive republication, "My sole ambilition is to enjoy the confidence of my countrymen." Towards this noble ideal he strove with undeviating purpose. Even in the mistakes he made could be seen his manly struggle to be right. Once again in private station and resuming the practice of his profession, he moved among his fellow-citizens, receiving the homage and recognition which came of their pride in the way he had bo ne the honors and administered the duties of the chief magistracy of the republic.

In his lest illness he had the sympathy and the prayers of the nation and the grand gathering of the whole people through the their representatives to his worth as a man and his eminence as a public servant. the whole people through their represent his worth as a man and his eminence as

Mr. Gladstone Wishes to Show the Extent of Them to the Irish People.

London, April 20.—Mr. Gladstone writes:
"I attach very high value and importance to the manifestations, now incessant, of American as well as colonial sympathy with the Irish people in the crisis created by the causeless, insulting and insidious bill at present before parliament. Apart from particular and more or less formal acknowledgements, I am not of the opinion that it would be proper or expedient for me to take it upon myself to address any general communication to America on this subject, which, however, I have noticed and may again notice in parliament. Still I am very anxious that the people of this country should have the means of understanding how much beyond the range of any sectional impulses and how truly national the movement in the United States has become, and in this view I would recommend that an endeavor should be made to present some estimate of the aggregate number of persons when the meant apartice, had and how truly national the movement in the United States has become, and in this view I would recommend that an endeavor should be made to present some estimate of the aggregate number of persons by which the recent meetings in America had been attended and likewise and especially an estimate of the numbers of governors, mayors, senators, representatives, clergymen and other official or highly responsible persons by whom such meetings have been countenanced or supported. London, April 20.—John Morley addressed an audience of four thousand persons at Wolverhampton this evening. Referring to Mr. Glad stone, he said that no other great leader had ever launched a great issue ov fought for a great cause with a spirit so entirely forgetful of its own personality, and so entirely shutting out the mean and ignoble considerations which seemed to affect ignoble minds. The crimes bill, continued the speaker, awakened tens of thousands of liberals to what they did when they rejected Mr. Gladstone's policy. He repudiated the accusation that the liberals countenanced violence and obstruction in parliament and that they allied themselves with men whose hands were stained with outrage. He reminded Mr. Chamberlain that he, in the Fortnightly Review, for February, 1886, advised that the Parnellite leaders be taken into the councils of the queen. The round table conference had been suspended because Mr. Chamberlain, though conciliatory in conclave, continued in speeches and letters publicly to revive bitterness. The unionists proposed to settle the question by ignoring five-sixths of the Irish people and dubbing their trusted representatives ruffians. On the general charge of complicity in crime brought against the Parnellites he had to say that the charge was fully stated before parlaiment in 1883, when the Irish government, after the fullest inquiries, found that the accusation could not be substantiated. With regard to the latest charge made by the Times, until that paper explained how it obtained the letter and grounds for be American home rulers scum of the earth. The Chicago convention had resulted in the defeat of the party of violence. The testimony, even of prejudiced witnesses, was that they had to deal, not with ruffians, but with all that was best and most honorable and most country-loving among the masses of respectable men in America. [Cheers.] In criticising the government proposals, Mr. Morley raised a large cheer by saying that bankruptcy had become what the gardners call a hardy annual.

THE LETTER IN THE TIMES Which Mr. Parnell Denounces as a For-

Which Mr. Parnell Denounces as a Forgery.

London, April 20.—The Times, as a proof of its assection at the conclusion of its articles on "Parnellism and Crime," that it had further documentary evidence, printed a fac-simile of a letter signed by Mr. Parnell and supposed to have been addressed to Eagan to pacify his subordinates when Parnell publicly denounced the Phenix park murders. The letter fills one side of an ordinary sheet of note paper and is in a strange hand writing. "Yours very truly, Chas, S. Parnell," in Parnell's writing, is at the top of the other leaf. The Times suggests that the signature was thus written so that it could be torn off if necessary. The letter, which is dated simply 15–5–82, without an address, is as follows:

oatet simply 10-5-52, without an address, is as follows:

DEAR SIR—I am not surprised at your friend's anger, but he and you should know that to denounce the murder was the only course open to us. To do that promptly was plainly our bet policy. But you can tell him and all others concerned that, though I regret the accident of Lord F. Cayendish's death I cannot refuse to admit that Burke got no commons. Several Gladstone liberals desire to have par-lisment issue summons to the editor of Times, calling him before the bar of the h of commons to answer for a breach of privilege in accusing Mr. Parnell and other members of the house of complicity in crime, or that Mr. Gladstone propose the appointment of a committee to examine into the Times' charges. mittee to examine into the Times' charges. The Parnellites have been consulted, and their leaders oppose both propositions. If neither the Parnellites nor the Gladstonians take the initiative in moving for an investigation, it is probable that an independent motion will be made, which both the government and liberal union members will support.

The Globe of this evening says that Mr. Beggar will sue the Times for libel, and make that paper's articles on Parnellism and crime of the series of which the Parnell letter was the culminating part, a basis of action.

He spoke of the healthfulness of the city, the splendid climate, the mineral springs adjacent, and especially did he speak of the "famous Salt spring, the wonder of this section, now being improved and beautified by enterprising citizens."

section, now being improved and beautified by enterprising citizens."

DR. FOSTER RESPONDS.

Dr. Eugene Foster, of Augusta, responded to the address of welcome.

Dr. Fostor said that as Paris was France, so it seemed Atlanta was about to be considered all of Georgia. Everything comes to Atlanta. About seventy-five years ago he had an inclination to fight Atlanta, but he had learned to love the city. He wished every city in Georgia was like Atlanta, and that the grand old city of Augusta had Atlanta's public spirit and enterprise and local confidence. When Atlanta had reached a population of 5,000 a friend of his was asked what foundation the place rested on and what her future promised. The reply was: "God Almighty only knows, but since the place has got to be a town of 5,000 I see no reason why it shouldn't be as big as London." Atlanta always had open arms for the medical association, always wanted the association to meet within the place and always that here were the proposed to meet within the placetage of the place has got to be a town of 5,000 I see no reason why it shouldn't be as big as London." President Powell then read his address. His subject was 'Heredity and Environment.' It was a very brilliant and interesting paper.

When it was read Dr. Foster introduced the following resolution:
Resolved, That in view of the great value of the president's address to the public as well as to the medical profession, that copies thereof be furnished to the press, with requests for publication.
The resolution was adopted. The address will be found at the end of today's report of yesterday's proposedings of the association.

Dr. William Perrin Nicolson offered a resolution providing that a committee of one from each congressional district be appointed to consider and report on the recommendations made in the president's address. The resolutionwas adonted. Dr. A. A. Smith offered a resolution inviting members of the press, the clergy and visiting physicians to seats with the association. The resolution was agreed to. REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Reports of committees were next in order. Dr. H. V. M. Miller, of the committee on expert testimony, stated that a bill had been prepared and presented to the legislature, but that body had failed to pass it. He had no idea the bill would pass, but as there would be a summer seasion, asked that the committee be continued, which was agreed to.

Dr. Miller made, also, a report for the committee on medical legislation. He stated that a bill had been prepared and submitted to the legislature to facilitate the study lof anatomy, and that the bill was not satisfactory, but the question was not what the doctors wanted but what they could get. It was better than no bill at all, and he had some reason to believe it would pass through. He did not know that it would receive the signature of the governor. A bill with the same object was once vetoed by the governor after it had passed.

Dr. Wm Abram Love, of the committee on state medical directory, made a partial report and asked for further time which was granted. The committee to which had been referred a communication from the state pharmaceutical association, through Dr. Gray, asked for further time, which was granted.

Medical association invited the International Medical congress to meet in Washington in 1887 and appointed a committee to arrange for that meeting.

The invitation was accepted.

The committee in arranging for the international congress by the appointment of committees, selected leading men, mostly from New York and Philadelphia.

At a meeting of the American Medical association, held in New Orleans, western and southern men manifested dissatisfaction over what had been done and claimed a larger representation than had been accorded them.

There was split and a new committee was a split and a new co appointed. "New code" men were turned out and "old code" men were put in, and there was a general squabble.

In the meeting yesterday Dr. Love introduced a resolution indorsing the American Medical association in its action, in giving to the south and west the additional representation and pledging the sympathy of the state association in the efforts to make the congress a success.

The resolution was promptly carried.

The secretary then read a telegram from Dr.

Dunglison, treasurer of the American Medical association, asking aid for the international Congress.

Thereupon Dr. Miller moved to reconsider Dr. Love's resolution, saying he had not understood it fully. He said the association would be called on for contributions it could not afford to make.

Dr. Battey spoke, saying the expenses of the congress were enormous, that the government's congress were enormous, that the government's appropriation was inadequate and he did not think it advisable to pass windy resolutions unless the state association was willing to go down deeply into its pockets and help out.

The resolution was reconsidered, but the question will come up for discussion again this morning.

The Excursion to Salt Springs. At 3 o'clock the members of the association, together with many prominent citizens of Atlanta, assembled at the union passenger depot to take a special train for Salt Springs, on an excursion tendered by Mr. E. W. Marsh, Sr., and his partners in the Salt Springs property.

Three coaches had been provided and they were quickly filled.

The Capitol band was on board and as the train left the depot the band struck up "Dixie" and played that lively air with right good will

The pavilion at the spring is a very handsome one, while the bath house is a perfect model. After a half-hour's stay at the spring, drinking water admiring the scenery and enjoying the delightful retreat in the fullest measure the doctors were collected into a group and a photograph was taken for Dr. J. W. Stone, representing Park, Davis & Co., of Datroit, and each doctor will be "complimented" with a picture. On their return to the village the excursionists spent an hour or so inspectwith a picture. On their return to the village the excursionists spent an hour or so inspecting the magnificent new hotel now nearing completion, and which will be ready for guests by June 1. The hotel is one of the most beautiful buildings on this continent. It is situated in a beautiful grove, forty acres of which will be made into a lovely park. The hotel contains two hundred and forty-five rooms, more than half the number in the Kimball house. Its costwill be $165,000, and it will be equal in elegance to any hotel anywhere.

The Salt Springs property, embracing 600 acres, is owned and controlled by Mr. E. W. Marsh and his sons and Messrs. James A. Watson and S. M. Inman. Their investment foots up a quarter of a million, and every cent of it is based on the curative powers of the Salt Spring water.

There are three hotels on the property—one near the spring and two in the village. One at the spring and one at the village are in "full blast" with plenty of guests. The new hotel will no doubt fill up quickly as soon as it is ready for the guests. It will be carpeted by Messrs. M. Rich & Bro., of Atlants.

President Powell's Address.

Gentlemen of the Medical Association of Georgia: You will doubtless think that I have selected a rather singular subject for your attention when I announce Heredity and Environment as the theme of the annual address. My apology for going outside of the class of subjects usual on similar occasions must be that, in my judgment, there is necession smust be that, in my judgment, there is necession smust be that, in my judgment, there is necession and none so much neglected as heredity and race, and none so much neglected as heredity and record themest formed the secondary of the pass of the most formidable inherited the endemies to disease, and the induced a sequind morbid as that are readily transmitted, and which do not appear in the descendants in a stereotyped form, but are manifested in an endies variety of morbid forms. Every tendency or quality of the physical and mental condition of man, such as will, intelligence, sentiment, passion, etc., of the healthy and morbid alike, is capable of more or less direct transmission. Hence heredity and environment are very important factors in the formation of the character of a people, mentally, physically and mersily. These features are fixed in a people as in a family. Heredity can be traced directly through some of the most formidable diseases to which we are subject; and when both parents have defective organisms, it is a physical certainty that their peculiarities will be manifested in their offspring in some form. Ribot says, "Heredity is that biological law by which all beings endowed with life tend to repeat themselves in their descendants." The masses look to the medical profession for the enunciation of the law of his garding profession for the enunciation of the law of his garding that biological law of heredity and environment. Moreover, it behows the profession not only to give their hearty sympathy, but to be co-workers also in every effort; that

Salcon Keepers in Maine Openly Defy the

New Liquor Law. BANGOR, Me., April 20.—The new liquor law went into effect the other day, with the excep-tion of the prima facie evidence clause, which will really not be in operation until May 1st, when the new government licenses are taken out.

In this city for several years the prohibitory laws have been a dead letter, and today with the advent of intensified liquor legislation making it imprisonment for the first offense, making it imprisonment for the first offense, there was no change in the situation. When morning dawned there was the usual procession of thirsty bibulants in search of eye openers. In fact, all day long the two hundred places or more where liquor can be tippled did as flourishing a business as ever. There was no attempt at concealment or any device resorted to to evade the law.

THE LAW A DEAD LETTER.

On Saturday Miss Mary Crosby, a most estimable lady, addressed an open letter to the mayor, which was largely circulated, appealing to him to execute the law. Those who perused it made up their minds that today would witness another Jerrard regime inaugurated. They were disappointed. There were no indications that the law would be enforced or that liquor sellers were in any way seared.

or that liquor sellers were in any way scared. A visit to the lowest groggeries on the Davil's Half Acre showed that the pernicious traffic in nasty beer and tarantula whisky was plied in as open and flagrant a manner as ever. Not were the more respectable saloons any less de-flant or contemptuous in their treatment of nant or contemptions in their treatment of the law. Thirsty souls could get all they wanted. As for the hotels, their barrooms dispensed to their patrons all the favorite bev-erages from an aromatic cocktail to a sparkling beaker of champagne without the alightest embarrassment, and just as freely as if no pro-hibitive law was on the statute book. Not even the guests at the table d'hote were cut off from their various sunniles at their mooday. off from their various supplies at their noonday

CAUTIOUS DRUGGISTS. The druggists were the ouly ones who showed more caution than usual in selling the subtle and forbidden fluid. Some actually declined to sell it for medical purposes, but there were more who did, and even went so far as to vend it for mechanical and scientific uses. were more who did, and even went so far as to vend it for mechanical and scientific uses. It was amusing to see how some who wanted their bottles filled with their favorite nectar would go to work. They would come into a store timidly and in a whisper to the man of drugs, give their order. Then, looking slyly in all directions to see if the coast was clear of Philistines, they would vacate the premises as bravely with their purchase as if nothing had happened. At the city liquor agency there was a falling off in sales. The total amount of liquor sold for the day did not exceed $1,500. A florid checked old duffer, who apparently had blind staggers, strode into this legalized rum shop, and if all reports be true, he undoubtedly had his needs supplied. There were no drunken men seen on the streets, and Bangor was as orderly as the most law-abiding citizen could wish. At ten o'cleck at night every saloon and drinking place was closed. Asking a blue coated "knight of the locust" how many had been pulled in at the police station for drunkenness, he replied: "Not one." It is hinted that an aggressive campaign against Bangor ligner salors is in prespect. that an aggressive campaign against Bangor liquor sellers is in prospect. With that design in view Governor Bodwell has been petitioned to appoint two special constables, but the knowing ones say such appointments will not

The Commercial of this evening says, editorially:

"It is stated that the persons who carried around the petition asking for the appointment of a state constable to enforce the prohibitory law in this city, were unable to obtain the signature of a single business firm or individual of any standing whatever in this community. The people of Bangor realize that a radical enforcement of the law here would not be conducive to the cause of temperance, but would be fruitful in corruption of the most degrading type. This view is held by hundreds of people who have no sympathy with the liquor traffic, who believe intemperance is as great an evil as it can possibly be painted, and who are ready to sustain at any and all times any practical measures designed to reduce or obliterate it, if possible, entirely from the community. It is the bulwark of conservative sentiments that renders Jerardism a matter of practical impossibility here." The Commercial of this evening says, editopractical impossibility here."

BLAINE'S HIDDEN HAND.

BLAINE'S HIDDEN HAND.

It would appear that Mrs. Crosby had her oubts whether the new law would be vigorously enforced. In concluding her letter to the mayor previously referred to she says:—

In this city sgain and again has our prayer to the government been defied, been ignored, been spurned, but never yet answered. White public sentiment is with us the politicians' sentiment is not. We push them from one position to another and at last logic forces them in the last dich to speak their real motive. Well, but we must elect Blaine. If indeed we must elect Blaine then we must do nothing to allenate the liquor vote from the republican party. We cannot deny that, as he has told us, the liquor interest in other states will resent the injuries inflicted upon it in Maine.

In fact, one case, a lady of over seventy years, had been sick for years, and for the past ten years I have known her she has not been able to be around half the time. About six months to be around half the time. About six months ago she got so feeble she was HELPLESS. Her old remedies, or physicians, being of no avail, I sent to Deposit, forty-five miles, and got a bottle of Hop Bitters. It had such a very beneficial effect on her that one bottle improved her so she was able to dress herself and walk about the house. When she had taken the second bottle she was able to take care of her own your and walk out to her reighbor? her own room and walk out to her neighbor's, and has improved all the time since. My wife and children also have derived great benefit from their use.

Gents:—Whoever you are, I don't know, but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in this world of adulterated medicines there is one compound that proves and does all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of palsy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change; another did so change my nerves that now they are as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. Now, if you continue to manufacture as honest and good an article as you do, you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind.

A Husband's Testimony. My wife was troubled for years with blotches moth patches and pimples on her face, which nearly annoyed the life out of her. She spent, many dollars on the thousand infallible (?) cures, with nothing but injurious effects. A lady friend of Syracuse, N. Y., who had had similar experience and had been cured with Hop Bitters, induced her to try it. One bottle has made her face as smooth, fair and soft as a child's and given her such health that it seems almost a mirsele.

about the students boycotting a certain estere, while not unfounded, is based on a ple misunderstanding. For several days the grand jury bailiffs have been serving mas ppon students in order to get their mony about certain matters the jury was restigating. The students naturally were iding out to escape summons. One of the billif was a new hand, who did not know tudents whose presence the jury wanted when he stepped into the of G. W. Rush, on College avenue, and addentally asked who a certain student ame. The bailiff wont across and served the suborns on the young man, who denied being sumed so-and-so. "But," said the bailiff, "I how you are, for M1. Rush across the street told me so." So the cat got out of the bag, and a boycott was ordered by the students sainst the drugstore of Rush. If the young men had investigated the matter they would have seen that the information was given unintentionally. It is said, however, that the real secret of the trouble dates back to the refusal of Mr. Rush, the owner of the drugstore, to give certain young men credit; in fact, this is the cause of the whole trouble, in Rush's opinion. The boycott is not being very strictly

The Market House Being Deserted for the Fashionable Avenues.

Athens, Ga., April 20.—[Special]—Some years so the city council passed an ordinance requiring all green grocers to close their meat stalls in different parts of the city and carry stalls in different parts of the city and carry on their trade in the markot house, on Market street, which was fixed by the city and armaged for a meat market. For several years this ordinance was strictly enforced and the city officers easily controlled the sale of meat and were enabled to inspect it and prevent dangerous meats from being sold. Recently, lowever, the council has permitted different parties to open meat stalls in the first ward, and the result has been that the city council parties to open meat stalls in the first ward, and the result has been that the city council has had other applications for permission to open stalls in other neighborhoods. At the last meeting permission was given Sobb Davis to open a meat market an Prince avenue, one of the principal residence streets of the city. It begins to look as if the city will be dotted here and there with green groceries. The city will lose all power of control over them when they get scattered, and the people will have no they get scattered, and the people will have no protection from the sale of unfit meat.

SOLICITOR OF THE CITY COURT.

The Action of the Grand Jury Criticised, but it Gets There Just the Same. ATHENS, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—A majority of the grand jury in their recent presentments recommended the appointment of Henry C. Tuck for the office of solicitor of the city court. This has received considerable comment among the people, for it is a well-known fact there were two applicants for the position, Sylvanus Morris, the present nominon, Sylvanus Morris, the present incumbent, and Geo. C. Themas, a lawyer of this city, had between them gotten the indorsement of nearly every one in the matter is explained by the statement that the majority did not care to prejudice the clances of either Mr. Morris or Mr. Thomas by recommending the appointment of either and recommending the appointment of either, and so settled upon a young man whose candidacy for the place is not generally known, and who is not claimed to be a real applicant for the office. Mr. Morris, the present solicitor, has made a good officer, and his reappointment would give general satisfaction.

ATHENS, Ga., April 20.—[Speciak]—Colonel George M. Snodgrass, president of the Classic City Street railway company, reached Athens last night by the Richmond and Danville railroad. Mr. Snodgrass is the great street railroad builder of the south, and it is hard to say how many railroads he has built. Hs is operating two or three in Texas, his native state, and owns a layer wount of the steet is the rating two or three in Texas, his native state, and owns a large amount of the stock in the Classic City railway in Athens and is president of the company also. He has within the past two years built a street railway from the town of Charlottesville to the University of Virginia, and is fresh from the work of completing a line if Raleigh, North Carolina. His plan of operations is simple and highly prosperous. He builds the railroads for a sum of money upon which his receipts will pay a handsome interest. The cost of construction is generally considerably smaller than the amount of bonds and issued. The difference between the honds and issued. The difference between the bonds and the cost of the railway represents a clear profit to the builders. Colonel Snodgrass is perfectly free and open in his work and stands well with the business men of every community in which he has worked.

Athens, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—Yesterday while young John Barnes, s finiversity student and a son of Congressmar Barnes, of Augusta, was walking with a friend on College avenue, in the direction of the petoffize, a negro man insisted upon going between Barnes and his friend, who were walking arm-in-arm. They naturally resented this and ordered the negro to go around, whereupon he became impudent and insulting to the young men. Mr. Barnes quietly knocked the fellow down and passed on. The affair was really laughable, owing to the cool manner in which Mr. Barnes laid the negro out and his apparent indifference to the matter. dent Darky. indifference to the matter.

ATHENS, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—Chancellor Mell, of the university, has left for Albany, Ga., where the Baptist convention of Georgia will assemble temorrow. The chancellor has been the presiding officer of this body for a long number of years, being annually re-elected to the position by the unanimous voice of the brethren. He is also moderator of the Southern Baptist convention, one of the largest religious bodies in the United States. This convention will convene in May in Louisville, Ky., and will be presided over by Dr. Mell. The Forest Fires.

ATHENS, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—Advices from Madison county show that the loss from the forest fires yesterday and the day before were very heavy. Near Danielsville B. R. Williams lost his crib and all his corn; T. B. Crawford lost all his fencing; R. T. Daniel lost four thousand rails, Sam Sorrels seven thousand, Rich Sorrels three thousand, and D. C. Scerborouch all his fencing. W. W. Scott lost Scarborough all his fencing. W. W. Scott heavily, possibly to the amount of $2,500. The fire started from burning off new grounds, and thousands of dollars' worth of property was consumed.

Athens, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—General Manager Green, of the Georgia railroad, was in close conference with several well known railroad men in Athens today. It is not known what was the object of the meeting.

The local paper of the city has scored a victory in having a stricter plan of discipline prepared for the government of the police force.

A member of the Salvation Army arrived in Athens on the noon train of the Georgia railroad, but immediately went out in the country.

The forest fire that for the last two or three days have been doing so much damage in the counties, and no further danger is apprehended.

The city is grading Prince avenue, and the commissioners are trying to make the avenue level. To accomplish this it is necessary to make fills in certain places. Some of these fills will be as much as four feet high, and it is difficult to conduct the work so as not to damage the property holders on either side. It is expected that some lawsuits will result from the matter yet.

The spring term of Clark superior court has adjourned for the term. The grand jury read their presentments yesterday in open court, and they were ordered published in the usual city papers, Quite a number of true bills were found. A good nany were for yiclation of the prohibition law and several were for grambling and disorderly conduct. But little criminal business was on the docket; in fact, the sheriff declares that since prohibition has been in effect the criminal business has decreased over one hat.

A BLOODY BATTLE

BETWEEN A MACON PATROLMAN AND A BELLIGERENT NEGRO.

Joe Bugg Gets a Bullet-A Man Who Fights by Sut-ting and Biting-A Serious Wound-Frest's Pre-liminary Trial-Micklejohn Before the Court-Other News Notes, Etc.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—Last night between ten and eleven o'clock, Joe Bugg got into a row with George Young. It appears that he hit at another negro, who is known as "The Black Dog of East Macon," and bit Young's finger instead.

Patrolman Jeff Johnson was called upon to arrest Bugg, and he attempted to do so, when the negro resisted and Johnson had to club him. Bugg ran off, and Jeff again tried to arrest him on the other side of the street, when Bugg again resisted and while the officer was struggling with him, trying to get the nippers on his wrist, Bugg jerked and struck him, bringing him heavily to the ground. Johnson sprang to his feet and Bugg threw his hand behind him, when the officer drew his pistol and fired. With a cry of pain Bugg turned and ran up Factory Row, and it was some time before he could be found. When he was located it was discovered that he was seriously wounded, and he, was taken in George Lumpkin's wagon and carried to his home near Stuart McCarty's, on Fort Hawkins bill, and put to bed. Dr. J. G. McCrary was sum moned and began a search for the bullet, which was found just under the skin, on the right side, a little below and about four inches to the right of the umbil-icus. The ball, a No. 38 caliber, entered near the front end of the right rib, and traversed the abdomen a distance of twelve inches.

Joe was still alive up to two o'clock today, with some small chances of recovery. Dr. Ma-Crary thinks that he has a showing to get well, out considers the wound an extremely danger out one. Johnson did not appear on duty at noon, but it is said that he was not hurt.

Chief Wiley went over to East Macon to investigate the matter today. He talked with quite a number of witnesses, and from what he quite a number of witnesses, and from what he learns, Johnson was entirely justifiable.

It appears that Joe is a negro of boisterous disposition. He is a big heavy set fellow, and works at Anderson's brick yard. He thrashes his wife cccasionally, and invariably resorts to the methods of butting and biting. Herefofore he methods of butting and biting. Heretofore he has always gotten out of his various scrapes by skipping out and remaining away until the affair blows over.

Last night he got on a spree, and began his exploits by scaring Dr. McCrary's cook and another negro who was passing Hamp Hall's barrom, when he drew a knife and pursued them. He then sent a message to Jim Earp that McCarty wanted his pistol. Earp, who is McCarty's clerk, sent the pistol and thought no more of it He then vaunted and uttered big threats of what he would do.

Finally he tackled the patrolman and then got into the trouble. Very few if any of the reople of Macon will think that Johnson done other than his duty in the premises.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—[Special.]—Today Charles Frost, the alleged bigamist, was brought into Freeman's court for trial. He was represented by Mr. J. W. Robinson. Chief Wiley appeared as prosecutor, and submitted a letter from C. Guatermus, of Selma, Ala., charging Frost with bigamy, and further alleging that he had information that the crime amounted to polygamy, as Frost had a living wife when he married in Selma.

Mr. Robinson moved for a dismissal on the ground, first, that the allegations in the war-

GEORGE PARSONS LATHROP has transmuted the Tennysonian idvl of "Elaine" into a four-act melodrama. The play is to be produced at the Madison Square theater in New York on the 26th of the present month. The principal characters are Elaine and Lancelot, and the "lily maid of Astolat" dies at the end of the third act-a seeming ante-climax, for a four-act play. Very likely, though, the concluding act will be little more than a reproduction of the scene de scribed by the line: "And the dead, steered by the dumb, went upward with the flood.'

M. Dumas in his recent attack on Victor Hugo did not attempt to disguise the fact that few men have ever been so worshiped as Hugo. Said Dumas: "He was listened to like a saint. Those who admired him fell on their knees and worshiped him. Those who did not admire him discreetly held their tongues. When death menaced him the nation's heart stood still. When death conquered him all France was beneath a pall, The surging murmur of a human ocean accompanied his departing spirit. Casar was dethroned to make room for his altar. MUCH of the medical talent of the state is now assembled in Atlanta. The state medcal association met here yesterday. The doctors will continue their learned discus sions today, and tonight will gather around the festive board at the Kimball house. The Georgia Medical association is a handsome as well as a learned body. Among its mem bers are veterans who have won high place in the professional world, and have made permanent contributions to the science and literature of medicine. There are also young men of rare promise who have the advantage of all the labor and achievements of their predecessors and before whom a future of usefulness and honor undoubtedly lies. The medical profession has always found worthy exponents in Georgia, and now it is unusu ally rich in talent and character. Atlanta welcomes the doctors.

MORRIS RANGER, who used to be known as the "Cotton King" in England, died in New York last Sunday. Mr. Ranger was one of the largest operators in cotton up to within the last four years. He was born in Cassel, Germany, in 1834, and came to America in 1855, going into the cotton business at Galveston, Texas, with his brother Gustave. The firm achieved success and five years later Morris came to New York and became a member of the prominent cotton house of Fatman & Co. From 1868 to 1880 he represented this concern in Liverpool, and then he began operations on his own account. In 1881 he manipulated the big corner in cotton, the first that was ever attempted on any large scale. Mr. Ranger is said to have cleared £2,000,000 by this operation. While in the thick of the fight with the "bears" he gave orders without memoranda or accounts and by his own prestige demoralized his opponents. All England rang with the excitement of the corne and Ranger, the cotton king, was pictured and written up by the leading newspapers and periodicals of the British empire. The matter came up in parliament, where a discussion of preventive legislation was prolonged without definite result. Two years later, however, the "cotton king" found himself forced to attempt another corner in order to prevent his failure. But the "bears" had learned a lesson from their 1881 expe in the financial mire Mr. Ranger found himself. He finally suspended, and left unsecured liabilities of about £1,800,000. He returned to New York in 1884, and has not been prominent in the market since that

The Streets of a City.

Nearly every argument that can be advanced in favor of a system of substantial country roads may be applied to the streets of a city. In fact, when the two approach high state of perfection it is difficult to tell where one ends and the other begins.

A city is a little world in itself, and its means of communication, travel and traffic should meet all the requirements of necessi ty and convenience. When the old Romans built their magnificent streets and roads civilization and social development reached their meridian. When Europe lapsed into the comparative barbarism of the dark ages men built their domiciles upon rugged heights, and in inaccessible places. Roads disappeared. There was no communication, little travel, and commerce and industry languished.

If good reads and bad roads respectively indicate the conditions of civilization and barbarism, it must follow that good streets and bad streets are identified with the corresponding extremes of urban development. Without considering the matter from an ornamental or sanitary point of view, it may be said that streets should be so constructed as to render the greatest possible amount of benefit to the persons and property thereby affected. Taking this view of the subject, good pavements become of the utmost importance. When the streets are well paved an increase in travel and traffic always follows. Men spend more money on a better class of vehicles when they see the matter of wear and tear reduced to a minimum. Improvements in real estate in these days depend entirely upon the condition of the streets. When people feel like doing any climbing they go to the mountains; they do not have any fancy for it in the city. So. when a citizen owns a lot approached by a steep incline, he is in no mood to build a fine house. He wants his residence to be easily accessible. Narrow, badly paved, badly sewered streets make property owners negligent and slack. They grow indifferent about repairs and improvements. Naturally real estate depreciates, or at least does not advance as would be the case under more favorable conditions. But the construction of regular, reasona bly wide, well paved streets never fails to stimulate real estate. Louis Napoleon knew just what results would follow when he revolutionized the streets of Paris, making them the most admirable of the world's thoroughfares. Old houses were remodeled vacant lots built up, and the improvement craze did not stop until it had made Paris a city of glitter and dazzle, in fact the most famous show city of the world. Of course every city cannot take the French metropolis as its model, but it can, if it will, pro vide itself with a good system of streets. There is another important point to be considered. Acity's streets and the suburban and country roads should not be totally Substantial and convenient dissimilar. highways radiating from a city are of inestimable value, and they induce rural property owners to make improvements that they would never have dreamed of under a bad system of highways. Good streets; good roads; take care these, and both town and country will array themselves in holiday attire, and show off at their best. We see this illustrated to a great extent in the case of Atlanta. In every quarter of the city improvements have always kept pace with the condition of the streets. Every dollar that we have expended for good paving has come back to us in many ways with a big interest. When we put money in a judicious way into our streets the investment will bring big returns at an early day.

Let the People Have Water.

THE CONSTITUTION is glad to know that council has promptly revoked the recent order with respect to the free use of artesian water. The economical spirit displayed by Superintendent Richards is commendable in a public officer, but it should be borne in mind by him as well as by the city authorities that the economy which would prevent the free use of water, even to the extent of waste, is in the nature of an experiment that may turn out to be both costly and danger

It should be borne in mind, moreover, that it is not intended to make the water works system a profitable investment; it is not intended that the system should pay money into the city treasury, and any ec nomical project that squints in that direction is opposed to sound public policy, and is a gross violation of the simplest laws of sanitation. The system has been well managed heretofore, and it is to be hoped that no scheme, or pretence of a scheme, that may be disguised under the cloak of economy will be permitted to stand in the way of the intentions and desires of the people.

The truth of the matter is, that Atlanta has always been in a ticklish position with respect to its water supply. This has been the weak point in the site and position of the city. This is a fact that we need not attempt to deceive ourselves about. It is not only an important, but a vital fact; so vital, indeed, that there is no room for experimental economy.

Under the circumstances, the meter sys tem, introduced some time ago, may be considered a success, but if there were no artesian well, it would be a vicious system, in deed. With the artesian supply, however the meters are permitted to do their perfect work and the pumps at the water works are enabled to run up to the fire pressure at any moment. Thus, the artesian well is more than paying for itself, and the water works system is a source of protection. But there are some important facts that no citizen of Atlanta can afford to lose sight of. In the first place, the question of our water supply is intimately connected with that o sanitation. In other words, the healthfulness of a large part of the city depends almost absolutely on the water supply. The two are inseparable. There are seventeen miles of sewers in Atlanta. These sewers have seventeen outfalls, but not one of these outfalls is beyond the confines of the city. This means that the filth and excremen issuing from these seventeen miles of sewer is dumped within the incorporate limits of

This is a very serious condition of affairs It constitutes a problem, the solution of which the whole future of Atlanta depends

This condition has been greatly mitigated heretofore by the free and unlimited use of water accorded to the city. What our economical authorities call waste water is, in fact, water applied to a very good purpose. Water that cleanses and drenches and purifies is not water wasted. This is one of the elementary principles of sanitation that every intelligent man under-

Let us look at the official figures and see how economy improves the situation from a sanitary point of view. Before the meters were introduced. Atlanta used from four to six million gallons of water daily. Since the n eters have been put in not quite two million gallons have been used. This is supposed to be a saving of seven or eight thou-sand dollars a year; but is there any saving in it? From a sanitary point of view there is a great loss.

It is true, the board of health is entitled to as much water as it can use in flushing the sewers, but this is not by any means s important or so necessary as the continual use of water in dwellings. The meters have given us greater protection in case of sickness, but if the city is not to reap the benefit of the artesian well, the fire protection becomes less important.

THE CONSTITUTION is of the opinion that the engine of the artesian well should be run to its full capacity both day and night, and if the people do not use the water, arrangements should be made to turn the surplus into the sewers until additional pipes can be laid. These additional pipes should be laid at once. The people cannot have too much pure water. Instead of a scrimping policy calculated to economize the artesian water, it would be economy to bore another well and run both to their full ca-

Dying in Disgrace.

It is believed that the dangerous wound inflicted upon General Bazaine, the other day, by a French journalist in Madrid, will result fatally.

Bazaine's career has been brilliant and disgraceful. More than half a century ago he entered the French army, served in Africa, and received the cross of the Legion of Honor on the field of battle. He fought in Spain and in Morocco. In the Crimean war he made a gallant record, and was raised to the rank of general of division. In 1862 he accepted a command in the French army in Mexico, and the following year was made commander in chief. He achieved some notable victories, but the attitude of our government compelled him to withdraw, leaving Maximilian to his fate.

The part played by Bazaine in surrendering Metz to the German forces, with its 6,000 officers and 173,000 soldiers, needs only a brief mention. For this unsoldierly conduct the unfortunate general was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment in a fortress. With the aid of his wife the prisoner escaped, and during recent years has resided in Madrid. Broken down by poverty, old age and disgrace, it matters little to the miserable exile whether the assassin's stab kills him. To this helpless and hopeless wreck death must be welcome.

Lieutenant Danenhower's Death. There is something peculiarly sad in the thought that Lieutenant John W. Danonhower, of the United States navy, after enduring with heroic fortitude the most terrible tortures of an arctic search, after battling bravely and successfully for life against odds which would have crushed a heartless courageous, should have come back to home and loved ones, and to justly earned honors, to die by his own hand. Yesterday morning he was found lying dead in his quarters at Annapolis, where he was detailed as an instructor in the naval academy. There was a bullet hole in his right temple, and the only words he had left were "Send me to my brother at Washington."

The statement that the immediate cause of the suicide was his fear of being courtmartialed for recently allowing a ship he was navigating to run ashore would not ordinarliy be a satisfactory explanation of such a deed at the hands of a brave and gifted young man. There was undoubtedly some mental aberration, resulting from his frightful exposure in the arctic regions. This made him morbidly sensitive and destroyed the balance of his strong and cultivated mind. He broaded over the fate of his friend, Gatewood, who only a few weeks ago also died by his own hand. An exaggerated sense of present trouble blurred the bright prospects which lay before him and tormented him to the desperate act. How much better it would have been if poor Danenhower had found a grave in the ice of the arctic beside DeLong, whom he went to rescue!

Knock Him Down. The Philadelphia Inquirer says: "If a man points an 'unloaded' gun at you, knock him down immediately." This is excellent advice, and we trust will be universally followed. In Georgia, and in several other states, it is a misdemeanor to point a deadly weapon at a person. Such should be the law everywhere, But every man should be a law unto himself in this matter. It is perfectly right to resent such practical jokes as are played with fire-arms, whether they be loaded or unloaded. These silly tricks do not always end fatally, but they constitute ample provocation for a square knock down. When you find your-

"playing with you" in this manner don't stop to argue with him. Knock him down! THE value of bullion silver is increasing There is no variation, however, in the value of a silver dollar. It is worth a dollar in gold.

NUTMEGS.

How They Get Their White Color and Why Girls Wear Them on Their Necks.

From the New York Sun. Down in the cellar of a Water street warehouse a man was shoveling nutmegs into a coarse sieve and rattling away like a frugal housekeeper with an ash sifter. "What's the matter with them?" ventured the Evening Sun-beam.

"Nothing," a swered the performer. "Don't you see I'm only grading them.

"Won't the grocer charge more for a big nutneg than for a little one?" "Well, right here in these boxes the nuts are just as they came from Singapore and Batavia. They are what the trade calls, 110s,' that is, 110 nuts to the pound, and that is the way this firm bought em; but as a matter of fact 110s average better than that, and it pays us to pick out the big ones and sell them separately—see? The largest nuts run about 70 to the pound, but there are some feather weights that go 10 to the ounce."

'What makes them look so white?" "Lime. It was shaken over them when they were packed for shipment. It keeps them fresh, and it weighs something too. When you buy nutmegs in the east each one of these boxes goes for half a picul. But the New York jobber takes very little for granted when he puts his money into merchandise that has sailed as far as these nuts have. Every box of them has got to be weighed on the Yankee beam, and on freedom's own soil, too; and, what is more, ten per cent of every parcel must be tared before the job-ber lets go of his silver dollars. Foreign weights must be naturalized, like the foreigner himself before we take much stock in them. egs that average 110 to the pound cost us about half a cent apiece, but before they get to the snowy head of a milk punch, or into the inner richness of a rice pudding, they cost the consumer two or three cents each. Formerly Singapore used to have the lead on Batavia for nutmegs, but now honors rre easy. Perpetual Motion.

F. H., Auburn, Ala.: Please tell me some thing about perpetual motion.

4. "Perpetual motion" is, according to Newton's firs laws of motion, all unresisted motion continuing forever unchanged. Technically speaking, perpetual motion means an engine which, with any supply of power from without, can not only maintain its own motion forever, or as long as its materials last, but can also be applied to drive ma chinery, and therefore do external work. In other words, it means a device for creating power or en-ergy without corresponding expediture. Machines have been made at different times that would, when once started, continue to run until worm out, but it is known for a certainty to be absolutely impossible to make one which will overcome resist ance, and a large fortune awaits any one who can also awaits any one who can prove that water will runiup hill by gravity alone. There is not, nor has there been, any prize offered for a solution of this much-talked-of subject. On the contrary, nearly all scientific societies have by-laws forbidding its discussion or the reception of papers or plans.

New Worker Added to the Prehi ists-Inclined to Get Out of Order.

From the Detroit Free Press. A friend of mine owns a typewriter, and he has a man to work it. This man is so quick that, in taking letters that are dictated by any friend he rarely uses shorthand, but dashes them off or the machine. There is only one trouble with Mr. the machine. There is only one trouble with Mr. Slack, the manipulator of the keys, and that is that he takes too much drink. He admits that it is hurting him, but he doesn't seem to have strength of mind enough to quit. My friend has labored with him a good deal, with some success. He doesn't want to discharge him—first, because he is a most expert man; and, second, because he is sure he will go to the bad when he leaves. He has yet had the deliriums, although he has rather close to it sometimes. These near ap-thes always make him struggle to amend. I told my friend Brunscome that what Slack needed was a real good tussle with the blue devils to make him quit the habit, and so Brunscome thought he would get up that attack himself as a sort of warning to the poor young man.

It was Brunscome's idea. I understand the construction of the typewriter pretty well, having had my own apartseveral times. I took a screwdriver and changed the letters. Anyone familiar with a typewriter knows that the letters can be changed merely by taking out a screw. When we got through with the typewriter it was fixed so that if you struck "E" it printed "A," and so on. When Slack came in next morning Brunscome said to him:

"Good gracious, Slack, what's the matter?"

"Matter, sir? Nothing sir," answered Slack look-"Now, look here; Slack, don't try to gammo

"Pon my honor, sir, 1-"
'Now, Slack." "Well, sir, not enough to do any harm, sir."
"See here, Slack," said Brunscome, taking him to one side, and whispering to him. "You've got the D. T. in your eye, my boy, you may not know it but you have. I've seen it too often to be deceived Slack. You may not see snakes; in fact, knowing your strength of mind, Slack, I would say it would never take that form with you. But your brain will give way; and all of a heap, too, if you don't quit right off and never touch it again. I really don't believe that you're fit for work "Oh I'm not as bad as you think, sir; I assure you I haven't had anything to hurt, sir." "Well, I may be wrong," said Bruuscome, with a sigh. "If so, it is the first time." Slack took off his coat and sat down at the type writer, slipping in the sheet of paper. Brunscome dictated the letter and Slack worked it off without looking at the MS. Then he turned up the top of the machine to see if it was right. Here is Hrny gti chine did not follow.

"What's wrong?" said Brunscome. Slack crumpled up the letter in his hand, and looked as if he were too frightened to speak. Finally he got enough breath together to say.

"I think you are right, sir. I'll-I'll go home, I

"I think you are right, sir. I'll—I'll go home, I think, sir."
"Do," said Brunscome, "that's a good fellow. You'll be all right in the morning, and for my sake quit it altogether.

BOODLE PRINTERS.

Arrest of a Foreman and Six Compositors for Swindling.

MONTREAL, April 20.—A sensation was caused here today, when it became known that the foreman and six compositors of a French newspaper had been discharged for being im-plicated in a wholesale boodling combine against the proprietors. For some time past the compositors in question have made fraudu-lent returns of the amount of their composition lent returns of the amount of their composition during the week, which were knowingly accepted by the foreman and entered in his weekly composition account. By this means the paper was defranded out of at least $50 a week. The fraud was discovered by means of an anonymous letter to the manager of the paper. Six compositors were taken helora a polica magistrate today and pleaded guilty, but, at the manager's request, sentence was suspended. The fraud will entail a loss of several thousand dollars.

The Liquor Question in Illinois CHICAGO, April 20.—Municipal elections were held in a large number of Illinois cities and towns yesterday. The question of license was the principal feature. A majority of cities declared for license, but in the smaller places the anti-license ticket was uniformly successful.

This report recites:

The history of the denomination in this state has demonstrated that woeful apathy exists among the Baptist laity and m nisters in regard to active was in various channels for organized effort, especially in non-attendance upon church associations as conventional gatherings, and active participations work therein, and that members failed and as failing to come up to the work of the Lord in the in non-stendance upon church associates and conventional gatherings, and active participation in non-stendance upon church associates and conventional gatherings, and active participation work therein, and that members failed and are failing to come up to the work of the Lord in the failing to come up to the work of the Lord in the days and manner it behooves every Christianto de. It is thought advisable that some memes should be devised to raise them up to a sense of duty; therefore, the Baptist laymen's conference has been called into being. The object and participated in the content of this conference is to put forth such efforts as will induce Baptist brethren all over the state to take more active interest in denominational work. It is recommended that the organization will be the more active interest in denominational work. It is recommended that the organization be continued only so long as there seems to be a demand for it; that we pledge our hearty co-operation with the state convention in all departments of its work; that three members be appointed who, with the chairman, vapresident and secretary, be constituted and officers hold office until the close for our meeting of the conference. Was residing in Chicago until 1872, when I moved to Meridian Mississippi, and thence here. I was mostly engaged in the drug business, but also carried on the soda water business for many years. Since my last long sickness I was not able to work as I wanted, and thought myself worthless in this world. God may forgive me; also my friends I ask to forgive me. Today is the third that I tried it, and hope I will be successful. I selected a gave out of town so that the state and county has to attend to my body. Yours truly.

SHEFFIELD'S SUCCESS.

Annual Meeting of the Land and Coal Company.
SHEFFIELD, Ala., April 20.—[Special]—The leading fact developed before the annual meeting of the Sheffield Land and Coal company today was that the stock was worth three and a half to four for one, Superintendent A. H. Moses, in the absence of the president, A. S. Golyar, took the chair. Colonel E. W. Cole reported that the company which he represented, and which was under con-tract to build three furnaces, had perfected such arrangements and that they would be erected in would turn out 450 tons of pig iron a day. 100 cars would be loaded daily. This immense output is exclusive of that of the other two furnaces which are now nearing completion. He predicted that are now nearing completion. He predicted that Sheffield would become to the south what St. Louis is to the west. His statement was received with strong evidences of appreciation.

The old directors were re-elected, and in turn the old officials were put back in their places. An important action was the passage of an order instructing the board of directors to expend at once one hundred thousand dollars in the erection of one hundred residences, to accommodate the rapidly increasing population. There is a strong feeling in the market and much demand for stock.

The French Crown Jewels.

PARIS, April 20.-The exhibition of the French crown jewels was opened today in the Lou-French crown jewels was opened today in the Dou-tre. The palace was thronged with visitors, most-ly ladies. No one was allowed to stop and admire the jewels, but persons who were regarded as pos-sble purchasers could obtain orders for a private view. The rooms in which the jewels are display-ed are beautifully draped. Orders from America, especially from the wives of United States senators, indicate the probable destination of a greater part of the jewels.

The Cook County Swindlers, CHICAGO, April 20 .- Counsel for the indicted Cook county officials argued a motion for a chasge of venue for the defendants before Judge Tuley to day. The plea was urged that the defendants could not obtain an impartial trial in Cook county. In support of this view, extracts from daily paper were read to the court. The reading of these extracts, it is expected, will consume nearly all of tomorrow.

St. Louis, April 20.—Dispatches from Ozark, Mo., say that the circuit court of Christian county opened there yesterday afternoon in pecial session to try the Bald Knobbers who were recently arrested for the murder of William Edens and Charles Green. Judge Hublard charged the grand jury, and that body began to take testimony at once. The principal evidence taken was that of Mrs. Edens, wife of one of the murdered men. Indictments the expected to be found without delay, and it is the purpose of the state to press the trial of the indicted men to a speedy termination. A large crowd of people were present from all parts of the country, composed of friends of the prisoners, as well as anti-Bald Knobbers—but everything passed off in an orderly way.

There is a problem not far in the future that will greatly concern the southern states; and it will not be a matter of little moment. I refer to the care of the criminal and afflicted of tha colored race. Unless there is a radical change in their habits and surroundings we may expect great trouble in the future. The habits and environments of the women are very much like those of the men; and when both parents have bad habits, or defective organizations, it is almost a certainty that the childien of such parents will be depraved or defective. In view of facts like these, we cannot wonder at the great concern the matter is giving the people of these states and at the action of their state m for the consideration of this association.

NEEDS OF THE STATE.

1. There is no enterprise that commends itself more to our profound sympathies, than a school for the feeble minded or idiotic children of our state. Its great utility, and value would soon be seen under wise and patient training. There are many cases that are susceptible of great improvement and some cases that might be qualified to sustain themselves. It is wrong to associate them with the insene, for it is hutful to them and to the insane, and also to the state in an economical view.

sustain themselves. It is wrong to associate them with the insene, for it is huntful to them and to the insane, and also to the state in an economical view.

2. There should also be established in connection with one of the convict camps. a hospital for the care and treatment of the insane convicts. The wards of ordinary asylums for the insane are not proper places for the custody and treatment of the insane convict. It is impossible to afford the necessary protection against their escape, and it is a crying shame to associate the insane with them, the moral effect is very detrimental to other patients. With such a hospital connected with some one of the convict camps, and with proper protection against their escape there would be much less feigning insanity among them.

3. In this connection I might say here that one of the great necessities of the state is a house of correction for the deprayed children. The young with deprayed tendencies that are, perhaps, inherited, should not be placed in the penitentiaries with surroundings that toster and develop those tendencies. When with proper care and environments, such as moral education and training, might be reformed and made self-sustaining and useful citizens.

This class of children are frequently sent to the insane asylum, a very improper place for them, for they come in contact with the delusions, hallucinations, the perverted ideas and actions of the insane, which is damaging to them, and it is impossible to give them the necessary moral education and employment that is absolutely increasing the proverted ideas and actions of the insane, which is damaging to them, and it is impossible to give them the necessary moral education and Christian intelligence.

4. White under the law of Georgia, the demented inebriate can be committed to an insane asylum, but there are obvious reasons why there should be a separate institution for them.

JESSICA THOMAS.

edy Company To-morrow Night. If genuine worth goes for anything, then the engagement of little Jessica Thomas and her comedy company, which begins at the opera house engagement of little Jessica Thomas and her comedy company, which begins at the opera house Friday night, ought to partake of the nature of an ovation. A Constitution correspondent at Covington thus writes of her appearance there:

"Never before were the theater goers of Covington more highly entertained thad they were last night at Music hall, by the marvelous singing of Miss Jessica Thomas. She well deserved the appellation given her as the 'queen of song.' She sang, 'A Bird from O'er the Sca,' 'Way Down on the Suwanee River,' and 'Mayitina,' a French song. Miss Thomas completely loses sight and conscious ness of self, and nothing but the beauty of her soul is embodied in her singing. While she was singing, 'Way Down on the Suwanee River,' not a dry eye c. nid be seen in the audience.'

"This tells the story of her womacrul power and bears out the advance representations concerning her. Clearly she is a little genium of song, but just discovered, and as Atlanta is so devoted to actual merit, it would, be a generous impulse to take warmly to the new star and show her by a spontaneous patronage that her superior gifts shall not go unrewarded. The management is very earnest in his efforts to secure her a hearing, and offers to refund the money if the entertainment is not satisfactory. Let Atlanta give Miss Jessica and her company full houses during their stay. Reserve seats on sale today at Miller's.

Received Too Late for Classification. A PLEARANT PRONT BOOM, PURILISHED A Also case large room, antermished Servands stendion, gas one bath, Ro. & Lord struct. Give the Children Pure Food.

Impure food that may not seriously affect the stronger digestive organs of an adult will frequently cause the most serious illness in a child. Too frequently this important fact is overlooked, and children are made sick from eating articles that have been taken by adults without apparent injury,

A child's food is largely cakes and bread, and these articles, when light, sweet, and composed of materials free from deleter-ious substances, are easily digested, nutritious, and wholesome. When these articles are made from pure and wholesome baking powder, they are much more healthful and nutritious than when prepared from yeast, or other leavening agent. But a danger arises from the fact that so many of the baking powders of the market are so impure as to render the food unwholesome. In fact, chemical analysis has developed the fact that all the baking powders now upon the market, with the single exception of the Royal Baking Powder, contain either lime, alum, phosphates, or acids of an injurious character. When bread or cake is made with the use of such adulterated articles, these injurious substances pass into the system, and are the source of very much of the disease with which our children are afflicted.

Persons who have not strong constitutions, growing girls, young children, and many ladies, are particularly liable to the evil effects produced by the adulterants found in these cheap bak, ing powders. Heartburn and the prevalent forms of indigestionare often traceable solely to their action upon the alimentary. organs. Prof. Willard Parker, U. S. Surgeon-General Hammond, Prof. Alonzo Clark, and eminent physicians all over the country, have spoken most earnestly of the evils arising from such

The absolute purity and wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder are unquestioned. The official reports of the U.S. Government Chemists have put this fact beyond all controversy. Prof. Mott reported that the Royal was undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder made. Prof. Love's report showed it to be of the highest strength, while Prof. McMurtrie, Chemist-in-Chief of the U.S. Agricultural Department, at Washington, D. C., found the Royal the only baking powder in the country free from both lime and alum, and absolutely pure.

There should be as much care in the choice of a baking powder as to obtain pure milk, or in having a prescription compounded from pure drugs and not from poisons. Pure, wholesome and delicious bread and cake are assured by the use of the Royal Baking Powder.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Bears and room traders began the operations of the day in the stock mar-ket by the same tactics which they employed late ket by the same tactics which they employed late yesterday, with a temporary decline as the result; but a good demand for stocks soon developed and many of the sellers of the morning became buyers in the afternoon. Market was a shade more active, a firm tone marking transactions almost the entire day. Coal stocks were once more the leaders of the market, but Reading monopolized most of the interest taken in these stocks. It furnished nearly prochaif of the hystocs of the first hour, and its one-half of the business of the first hour, and its rally turned the current in the remainder of the list. Richmond and West Point and Consolidated Gas came into prominence early in the day by rea-son of their activity and strength. Erie was also a favorite and St. Paul was well supported. Fort Worth and Denver was more quiet and showed no marked strength, and Manhattan showed considerable weakness. The opening was weak, decline from last evening's final dgures ranging up to \(\frac{1}{2} \) per cent. The market, however, was firm from the opening, with the exception of Reading, which declined \(\frac{7}{2} \) per cent under free selling. Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburg preferred, Fort Worth and Denver and Jersey Central were noticeably strong, and Reading, after a rally, quickly regained its loss. Consolidated Gas then became a specialty, but the general list maintained a slow but steady advance. In the afternoon Richmond and Wes Point became strong, and the general market showed little or no movement, with a marked de-crease in business. Some selling for realization caused a slight depression in the last hour, but the market again stidened, the close being active and strong at the best prices of the day. With but three exceptions the entire active list is higher at the MANCHESTER, April 20.-The Guardian, in its commercial article, says: The tone is not lively, and few houses have exceeded a moderate business. The tendency of prices is downward, especially in the same of ness. The tendency of prices is downward, especially in the yarn department, where the recent advance was never fully established. There is no appreciable increase of business in the India department, and there have been but few transactions with the price of the partment of the price of th tions for the other eastern outlets. The miscella-neous demand is quiet, though the number of transactions has been fair in some departments. Altogether, there has been but little freight. This also applies to the home and colonial trade, as far as the demand from first hands is concerned. The export yarn market is exceedingly quiet. India staples are in poor demand, and manufacturers who are not well provided with orders are more distrous to sell. Some makes of shirtings are freely offered, and occasionally a quick delivery is given. The early stoppage of some of the looms is mentioned unless there is a decided revival in the demand. There is some inquiry for jacconets and d'doolles, but offers are rarely feasible.

NEW YORK, April 20-C. L. Green & Co., in their report on cotton futures today, say: Operations were slow, and the market without any clearly defined point for the day. At first the tone appeared easy, but rates recovered, though not being fully sustained, and the close was dull at very little dif-ference in the cost from last evening with all hands more or less befogged. There have been some few new buying orders received today, but generally operations were local, and exhibited great caution

THE CHICAGO MARKET,

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution. CHICAGO, April 20-The wheat market turned strong today, the members of the recognized bull elique appearing in the pit and bidding for good sized lots. Trading on the whole was the heaviest in a number of days. Buying was not only for May delivery, but extended into June, and that option at the close was within 1c of May, while the difference yesterday was 1340. Shorts were good buyers today, and aided the advance. The buying of June created the impression that June option also would come under the control of the buil combination. Liverpool was quoted quiet and steady. The amount

AGAINST THE CITY.—There was filed, yesterday, with the clerk of the superior court a suit for $5,000 damages against the city of Atlanta. The case is brought by George G. Eldson, who alleges that while walking along Marietts street he stepped upon a loose piece of brick and was thrown into a gully, sustaining bad injuries. He is represented L. F. Smith and Arnold & Arnold.

A DEAL IN DIET.—This afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, Messis. J. C. Hendrix & Co. will sell eighten very desirable residence lots on new Pror street carline. The lots are all large, level and attractive. There are several large and handsome residences new being built on Pryor street near this property, and these lots are rapidly enhancing in value. Let all attend the sale this afternoon.

REWARDS PAID,-Governor Gordon yesterday authorized the rewards for the capture of H. Parker and W. G. Ford to be paid. They were indicted in the superior court of Bibb county, October, 1886, for the murder of James Moore. Seven were in the party that was charged with the killing, and a reward was offered for five of them. Forty-eight hours after this reward was offered the authorities in Macon caught H. Parker and W. G. Ford,

IT BROUGHT A GOOD PRICE.—The Weems tomestead, on Capitol avenue, was sold yesterday at public outcry by G. W. Adair, real estate agent. A large crowd was in attendance, and when Colonel Adair asked for bids he was effered $9 000. Bidding quickly became general, and the price went up until $10,600 w. 8 reached, when the place was knocked off to Mr. T. B. Neal, president of the Neal Banking company, who offered that price. Mr. Neal purchased the place with a view to making it his place of residence.

ICES AT THE GRANT PARK .- Major Sidney Boot, president of the park commission, is devoting all his energies to making the park the most delightful resort about the city. He is always studying a scheme to make the place attractive and yesterday hit upon a novel will find a delightful lunch counter and confectionery stand at the main pavilion. Fruits, ices, soda waters, and lunches will be served under the direction of Henry Durand, the union passenger depot restauranter.

FELL FROM THE CAR.—Sam Goodson, a small negro boy, met with a bad accident yesterday afternoon just west of Forsyth street on the Central road. Goodson, with two companions, sprang upon the steps of a Central road coach as it was leaving the union passenger depot and rode to Forsyth street, where they began to jump off. Goodson was the last one to leave the train, and as he jumped he lost his bearing and fell across a track next to the one upon which the train was moving. the one upon which the train was moving. His head struck one of the rails with sufficient force to knock him senseless. Later, when the boy recovered consciousness, it was ascertained that his right shoulder had been dislocated. that his right shoulder had been dislocated.

A Sudden Death—Mis. Margaret McCardy died suddenly yesterday afternoon at her heme on Richmond street. Mrs. McCardy was quite a young lady and her death will prove a surprise to her many friends because of her apparent good health. On Sunday last the lady was taken ill soon after dinner, and during the afternoon and evening endured intense pains in her head and chest. The next morning she was decidedly better but unable to leave her bed. The improvement continued thoughout the day and Tueeday. Yesterday, however, she began to grow worse rapidly, and died about three o'clock. Her death was due to a pertial paralysis of the brain, so the physician. to a partial paralysis of the brain, so the physicians think.

FIFTY YEARS OF ATLANTA.—Mr. Wallace P. Reed, of THE CONSTITUTION, is now preparing a full and complete history of the city of Atlanta, which will be issued during the coming fail by the historical publishers, D. Mason & Co., if suitable encouragement is effected by our citizens. Mr. H. B. Clearman, a representative of the publishers, will spend a few days in the city and further explain the plan and objects of the work. The fact that Mr. Reed has been a newspaper writer and a resident of the city for many years, makes him FIFTY YEARS OF ATLANTA .- Mr. Wallace resident of the city for many years, makes him tonversant with much of Atlanta's unwritten history, which will now be made a matter of roord, and will make the history one of much value and interest to our people. It goes without saying that Mr. Clearman will be heard with pleasure when he gives a more detailed account of the work. count of the work.

The Chess Tournament.—The tourney which began a week ago at the rooms of the attanta chess and checker club, is progressing atisfactorily. During the afternoon and evenings the rooms are thronged with the contestants and their friends. A great deal of intest is manifested in the tourney. The latest tons are as follows: H. H. Tucker won 8 ames and lost none; W. G. Robinson won 6 and lost 5; A. H. Davis won 2 and lost 3; W. E. Senggs won 10 and lost 5; E. P. King won 3 and lost 11; James F. O'Neale won 1 and lost 11, J. W. Green won 6 and lost 5; John Carey won 3 and lost 5; J. T. Blount won 10 and lost 1, N. B. Fowler won 8 and lost 10; W. T. Wall won 3 and lost 10. Messrs. Wurm and Robinson being the only players in the first class are required to yield odds to the others. It is generally predicted that Captain Tucker will win the first prize. ENFORCING THE LAW.

THE PROHIBITION CASES IN THE CITY COURT.

Herman Werner Amends His Plea and Pleads "Gull-"-Judge Van Epps Sentences Hum to Pay a Fine of $200 Louis Muller Gets $100-A Case Against Steve Grady, Etc.

When the city court met yesterday the room was crowded with spectators. It was expected that the Werner case would develop some sensational features

Many prominent prohibitionists and antiionists occupied the front seats, and they followed the proceedings with unflagging

Between fifteen and twenty witnesses had been summoned, some well known citizens being among the number.

The defendant, Mr. Herman Werner, was early in his place, and his counsel, Mesers. Hopkins and Glenn, were near him. The presecution pursued the line indicated in the Beiser case. Solicitor Glenn placed upon the stand several reputable citizens, who were questioned rigidly as to whether or not they had ever drunk whisky or beer in Kenny & Werner's saloon, and several of them replied in unequivocal language that they had. It was difficult, however, for any of the witnesses to define clearly the difference between "agaric" and whisky.

The state having established this important point, the defendant deemed it best to with draw his plea of "not guilty" and to plead "guilty" to the indictment. The court permitted him to do so.

This brought the trial to an abrupt termination much to the disappoint ments the thereof

This brought the trial to an abrupt termina-tion, much to the disappointment of the throng of visitors, who came with the expectation of seeing some fan.

Judge Van Epps, after the clerk had record-ed a piea of "guilty," proceeded to pass sen-tence upon Mr. Werner and upon Mr. Leuis Muller, his bar tender, who was convicted last tence upon Mr. Werner and upon Mr. Louis Muller, his bar tender, who was convicted last Monday.

Judge Van Epps said:

"Since the ruling of this court in the Beiser case, the practical effect of which was to declare the retailing of domestic wines for consumption on the premises within the pervlew of this statute and to impose penalties upon violators for permitting tip ling in wines to be done in whierooms, the prohibition law, in my opinion, based upon reliable information, has been comparatively well observed; as well observed, perhaps, as a new law would be observed that was in opposition to the business interests and habits of a large number of our people.

I think it may be confidently expected hereafter that only bad men who are utterly disregardful of the law as distinctly announced from the benches in this county, will hereafter commit offenses against the prohibition laws. Men of such a character will deserve, and will receive, no sympathy from the court.

If the business of conducting a wineroom cannot be profitably conducted except by violating the law which it is the duty of every clizen to observe, the only honorable course left is for the citizen to abandon the business and devote himself to some other employment. In this case Mr. Werner, after he was indicted, abandoned the business. He gave it up altogether because he found, I suppose, that he could not conduct the business profitably without violating either by himself or through his clerks the law, which it is the duty of the court in bis county to enforce. I think that consideration ought to weigh a great deal with the court in passing sentence upon him. In addition to that fact he has voluntarily come in and submitted himself to the judgment of the court, having withdrawn his plea of not guilty and filed a plea of guilty.

In the case of Louis Muller: Mr. Muller was a clerk in that same establishment. An affidavit filed by him informs the court that he is a poor man dependent altogether upon his salary which was until a recent period, sixty Let Mr. Werner pay a fine of $200 and costs, or six months on the public works.

Let Mr. Muller pay a fine of $100 and costs, or four months on the public works.

The case of the state against Steve Grady was then called. This case is similar to the other whisky cases, and pretty much the same witnesses will be required to testify. Two witnesses will be required to testify. Two witnesses for the state were examined, when the court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morn. the court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morn-lar, which they have sent to their lady friends:

Headquarters Atlanta Rifles, Atlanta, Ga., April 15, 1887.—To Our Lady Friends: As the time has almost arrived when it is our custom to do homage to our confederate dead, the Atlanta Rifles, through their committee, take the liberty of appealing to you for assistance. Under ordinary circumstances we would be reluctant to ask at your hands anything calculated to inconvenience you. But in this instance we do not hesitate, for too well do we know that it will be a pleasure to you to lend us a helping hand in so noble a cause.

As this will be the first time that our company has taken part in the memorial exercises, we destreby the aid of our noble ladies to make the occasion one that our command and citizens will ever be proud of. We therefore appeal to you to donate to us as many floral offerings as you can, specifying on enclosed postal what shape they will be in.

PER DIEM.

SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE CAR ACCOUNTANTS.

The Fer Diem and Kileage Systems Thoroughly Dis-cussed But No Definite action Taken—Appoint-ment of Standing Committees—Two Re-ceptions—The Programme, Etc,

What is technically known as the "per diem" question received the attention of the car accountants convention yesterday.

For years it has been evident to railroad author For years it has been evident to railroad author ities that the mileage system of apportioning freight charges, is not by any means a brilliant success, and it has been their aim to find, if possible, some way of curing the evils of the present system. Two methods are proposed: First, for each road to charge other roads a fixed rate per day per each day they have in their possession any of its cars—this is the straight per diem system; second to combine the two systems, charging a low per diem rate and also clow mileage rate. The discussion yesterday was concerning the necessity for a change to the per diem system, and, should this be necessary, as to the respective merits of "straight per diem," and of "per diem and mileage mixed."

On Tuesday a committee, with Mr. Squires, of the On Tuesday a committee, with Mr. Squires, of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy as chairman, was appointed to consider these questions and to report to the convention. Yesterday's session began by the passage of several resolutions tending to simplify the clerical work connected with the secre-tary's position, placing within the control of that officer all of the printing of the association, and also giving him the power to employ what stenoalso giving him the power to employ what stenographic assistance he might require. The question of reporting the destruction of cars to owners was discussed at some length by Messrs. Wilber, Trout, Davies, Gilmon, Halsey, Brook and others, and a resolution to the effect that it is the duty of car accountants to report to owners all cases of injury to their cars was adopted.

The convention had been awating, not very patiently, the arrival of the committee on per diem, but there was a limit to the patience of the members, and Messrs. Spalding and Maroney were appointed to wait upon the committee and state that the convention was waiting to hear from it. Upon Mr. Spalding's return he stated that the committee had arrived at no conclusion and had recommended that the convention go into a COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE and discuss the subject thoroughly. This motion was adopted, and Mr. Squire was called to the chair.

The discussion of the question was opened by Mr. Spalding who read an able paper favoring a was adopted, and Mr. Squire was called to the chair.

The discussion of the question was opened by Mr. Spalding, who read an able paper favoring a combination of the per diem and mileage systems. He thought that the adoption of the straight per diem system would be not only experimental but revolutionary, and that the roads, where a change is most necessary, would not go into anything involving so radical a change.

Mr. Hoyle read a long letter from Mr. Yowley, of the Pennsylvania, who has given the subject a great deal of istudy.

Mr Maroney read an able paper, in the course of which he treated the question in every possible phase. He favored the "small per diem and low mileage rate" system, claiming that this would not be found oppressive if well regulated. He thought the rate, per day might be about 10 cents and rate per mile half of one cent, adding that in his opinion a tax of 50 cents per day ought to be charged for cars of one road used in the local service of another, this tax to be paid by the road responsible. Though not in particularly good voice—owing to circumstances over which he had no control—he grew quite eloquent and his paper was heartly enjoyed by all of the members.

By the time Mr. Maroney had concluded, it was nearly dinner time. After Mr. Willis E. Reagan had been elected an honorary member of the association and the convention had accepted with thanks Mr. Joseph M. Brown's invitation for a visit to Kennessaw mountain, a recess till half past two o'clock was taken.

At the Errenoon session.

The discussion was renewed in earnest. Mr Halsey read quite a long letter from R. F. Goodwin, general superintendent of the Buffalo Creek railroad, which contained a thorough review of the stand taken by roads having water terminals. It was claimed that the per diem system is an unjust tax on terminal roads for the benefit of roads in the interior.

was claimed that the per diem system is an unjust tax on terminal roads for the benefit of roads in the interior.

Assistant General Superintendent J. W. Fortune, of the Chicago and Grand Trunk, said that the real trouble is that while the western roads are building cars, the eastern roads build more sidings. He gave some figures showing that some of the eastern roads do not average more than one car to each mile of roadway, while the western roads so the eastern roads on the roads of the eastern roads on the property of even more cars per mile. The eastern roads not only use in their ical traffic the cars of the western roads but they also use them for storage, thus saving the expense it suiding elevators. It is this detention which the sate of the work of the cars to lose heavily and a credem system would, it is thought, cure this, where asked as to his preference of the various system, Mr. Fortune suggested that it would be a good idea to fix for each day that a car is held by the road over its allotted time.

Mr. A. W. Davies, of the Lake Shore, was the leading advocate of straight per diem. The great to the will result from the fact that the necessary increase of clerical hire will not be particularly popular with managers. He thought that the per diem system was not only excellent of itself, but it has the merit of being easy to operate, necessitating but little change in the present forms. The easiest method would be to keep on the junction cards a record of the hour when the car was received and also that at which it was forwarded. If the charge is made by the hour, the work of keeping the record will be found to be very simple. Under any of the systems the revenue will be about the the same as under, the others.

WHICH IS EASIEST?

which is a spirited discussion concerning the amount of work which each system would entail upon the accountant's office. Mr. Davies thought that the straight per diem would be easter to manage than the mixed system. Mr. Squire did not think there would be much difference between either of the proposed systems and that now in vogue. Mr. Wattson stated that in his office both per diem and mileage had been kept, but it was done without any addition to his force. He thought that the straight per diem system was that all the roads must use it to make it a success. Under the mixed system it would be possible to keep thorough records even if one road should use per diem and another mileage.

The chair, in order to ascertain the sense of the convention, asked for a rising vote upon the question. Do you want per diem in some shape? Forty-eight members voted aftirmatively while but three voted in the negative. Forty of these favored per diem pure and simple. Votes were taken upon the various rates suggested, but the majority of the members did not seem to know what they were voting on.

Mr. Spalding spoke again in favor of the mixed system. His theory was that it would be found impossible to get all the roads to adopt the per diem pure and simple. It must be reached by degrees.

Mr. Squire indorsed these views and thought the proper figures would be one-half cent per mile and fifteen cents per day. He has found in his experience that the detention of cars increases each year. der the others. WHICH IS EASIEST ?

As there seemed to be no desire for further dis-cussion, the committee of the whole was dissolved, and the original committee on per diem retired to further consider the subject.

FROM THE LADIES. President Hoyle resumed his duties as presiding officer, and Secretary Lyon read the following communication, which was ordered embodied in the proceedings of the convention proceedings of the convention:

The ladies who have the good fortune to be the wives, sisters and friends of the car accountants, desire to express their sincere thanks and hearty appreciation for the courtesy extended to them by the president and vice-president of the convention, Messrs. Hoyle and Spalding.

moneys expended, which I contend to be a valid one.

There was a controversy between the executor and myself relative to a fee due me for services rendered Mrs. Merrill, in her life time. This branch of the case was heretofore tried, was gained by me and the amount adjudged to be due me has been paid.

There is now a fund of some four thousand dollars in court, which is contended for not by me, but by the widowed daughters of Mrs. Merritt on the one hand and by certain charitable associations on the other.

THE REVIVAL CONTINUES. Remarkable Meetings at Trinity|Church are

The interest in the meetings at Trinity church continues to grow. The meeting yesterday morning was led by the Rev. H. J. Adams, of Edgewood. He made an earnest, practical talk. Mr.
Adams is held in very high esteem by the Trinity people, having been one of the first pastors of the church.

Last night the meeting was more largely attended than any or the services held this week, and it was the best service since the revival began. The Rev. J. W. Lee read a portion of scripture from the eleventh chapter of St. John, and spoke only a few minutes. He then called on Judge W. R. Hammond, who made a very effective talk on "the way to be saved," He said the first thing necessary was conviction. This come from a comparison of our lives with the perfect law of God made known to us in the Scriptures. In the next place, repentance is necessary. Then faith in Christ. His remarks were greatly enjoyed by all present.

Then latter in Carlist. In remarks were greatly enjoyed by all present.

The pastor then called upon Colonel T. P. Westmoreland for remarks. He spoke of the promises of God. How tendef, persuasive and universal they were. He made an excellent talk, and it had fine effect upon the audience. One thing was a little out of the general line in the service last night.

inie effect upon the audience. One thing was a little out of the general line in the service last night.

Mr. W A.Hemphill was called on for the first prayer at the opening of the service. While the congregation were bowed, he saked all present who desired an interest in the prayers of the Christians to raise their hands. A number responded to this proposition. Mourners were called for at the beginning of the service.

During the after meeting many testimonies were given by the Christians present. From beginning to end it was a delightful meeting. All entered into the spirit of it with the greatest unanimity. The meeting is being carried on by the pastor and his laymen, and it is accomplishing great good. The members are being called into Christian work, and they share with the pastor the responsibility of the meeting. Mr. Lee said the other night that he did not object to evangelists. He thought that he regarded it a calamity upon the church that a large class of members had reached the conclusion that it was impossible to have a meeting without sending for an evangelist. He thought the best meetings resulted from the work of the church members themselves.

The Rev. W. H. Potter, of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, attends all the services. His prayers and ministrations are greatly enjoyed. Service this morning at ten o'clock and tonight at 7.45. Everybody is invited to attend.

THE SCALES OF JUSTICE.

Criminal Business Disposed of In Judge Clark's Court.

The Atlanta circuit court met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, Judge Richard H. Clark pre-siding. A good deal of criminal business was dis posed of. Lucy Crockett, the woman who was indicted for arson, and whose trial began day before yesterday, was convicted of malicious mischief. She was sen-tenced to pay a fine of $50 or go to jail, for twelve tenced to pay a fine of soo or got to jail for twelve months.

Cal. Cole, a negro, was convicted of burglary and sentenced to spend a term of six years in the penitentiary. He burglarized the house of J. A. Smith and stole a sack of flour.

George Cole, his brother, was tried on the charge of stealing a watch, and the jury failing to agree, a mistrial was ordered.

John Hendrix was tried on the charge of stealing a box of tobacco from a car on the East Tennessee railroad. The jury acquitted him and he was discharged.

The Lutheran Fair. The largest, interesting and most enjoyable crowd filled the Centennial hall to its greatest capacity last night, and the greatest interest was taken to make it pleasant for everybody. Among the most popular and attractive young ladies were: Miss Maggie Kane, Miss Nellie Shickan, Miss Nora Daly and Miss Florence Deihl. One of the most interesting features was the Parlarch Militant who Daiy and MISS FIOTENCE Deihl. One of the most in-teresting features was the Patriarch Militant, who attended the fair in a body with their gay uni-forms. Much interest is taken in the contest of Professor Wedemeyer and Mr. Louis Muller for a gold watch. Miss Dora Jentzen and Miss Hattle Wedemeyer are the most professorable source. widemeyer are the most praiseworthy young ladies at the fair. Tonight the most interesting features since the opening of the fair will be introduced. It will be a drill by twenty-four of Atlanta's most popular society young ladies. The drill will commence at 9 o'clock sharp, and dancing will follow.

grand view of almost the entire city. The Metropolitan street cars pass in front of the property.
The water main in front of every lot, with two hydrants, one at each end of the lots.

Pryor street is becoming one of the fashionable streets of the city; several handsome residences are now being built on that street near this property, and with the street car accommodation now furnished, a home on any of these lots will be as convenient as you could wish. They lay just over the city limits, and are free from city taxes. Now, if you want a home, where you have a perfect view of the city, good water and pure sir, here is your chance. Terms; one-third cash, balance in six and twelve months, with 8 per cent interest. Take
